

Brand and Writing Guide

Voice

Write in direct, practical language. Avoid exaggerated adjectives and claims that sound guaranteed.

Prefer specific product behavior over broad claims such as 'transforms your business instantly'.

Claims

Numerical performance claims need an approved source. If a number isn't supported, rewrite it qualitatively.

Don't claim a product is the fastest, safest, cheapest, or number one without approved comparative evidence.

Style

Use sentence case headings. Keep paragraphs short. Explain necessary technical terms.

Product naming

Use the full product name on first mention. Shortened names can be used later if they remain clear.
